

Notice for course feedback

Though the deadline of course feedback was September 18, 2019, some students have missed the notice due to the pressure of final week classes. Considering the scenario and based on some requests, we are extending the deadline to September 30, 2019 (Monday). Keep in mind that, the system has already identified that many of you have not given the feedback. It is worth mentioning that feedback process automatically hides the feedback from the user account which helps to make the feedbacks autonomous. But, it keeps track about which students have submitted the feedbacks and who have not, and this list is available to the head of the department.

Also note that, this term every student has to provide both course and instructor feedbacks for theory courses, and only course feedback for sessional courses (No instructor feedback for sessional courses as it causes a huge number of feedbacks to provide with). If any student fails to give all the feedbacks within the specified time, then department will take necessary steps against him/her. The link of the course feedback is
